RACES HELD BY YACHT CLUB

With competition in two classes, the Mattapoisett Yacht Club held three events last week - two on Wednesday and one on Saturday.

In the third and fourth races in the July series for Juniors, held Wednesday morning, July 9th, Jimmy Barnes in Gay-Lee-Ann II won both races in the Beetle Cat division, and Dan Briggs in Iterate and Billy Mee in Irish Eyes split the win for the Corinthians.

The first race for the Corinthians and Beetle Cats was a course from the race committee boat anchored at mid-harbor opposite Ned's Point to the Ned's Point MYC guide buoy to Barstow Rock Red Nun 6 to Mattapoisett Neck MYC guide buoy and finish at the race committee boat.

Dan Briggs in Iterate led the four-boat fleet over the finish line. P. Ruel in Lulu was second and C. Burr's Good Grief was third. In the Beetle Cat division, Jimmy Barnes' Gay-Lee-Ann II placed first, Mimi Roy's Four Kings second, and John Ross' Happy Too third.

The second race was a shorter course from the race committee boat to the Ned's Point MYC marker to the Mattapoisett Neck MYC marker and finish at the race committee boat.

WEDNESDAY EVENING SERIES

The first race of the season in the Wednesday Evening Series was held at the Mattapoisett Yacht Club Wednesday, July 9th. The winning Corinthian skipper was Tom Clark in Instead. Sue McGowan's Hep Cat II took the honors in the Beetle Cat division.

The prevailing wind was light, from the south, six miles an hour.

Both classes sailed identical courses, starting from the race committee boat anchored in mid-harbor to Mattapoisett Neck MYC guide buoy to Ned's Point MYC guide buoy to Barnard's Wharf MYC guide buoy, and finishing at the race committee boat.

In the unofficial two-boat match race between the two Corinthians entered, Tom Clark's Instead took the lead at the start and maintained it throughout the course to win. Jennifer Mee's Irish Eyes finished second.

As the nine-boat fleet of Beetle Cats answered the starting gun, several boats had to be recalled to restart (for crossing the line too soon). Sue Whalen in Frolic was out front during part of the first leg of the course, but as the boats rounded the first marker Harvey Pentleton in Swamp Fox gained the lead, with Sue McGowan second and Phil McCarthy's Wolf third.

Approaching the Ned's Point MYC guide buoy, Pentleton hit the marker and was forced to re-round it. Sue McGowan was then in first place. At the next marker (Barnard's Wharf MYC guide buoy) the three leading boats were Hep Cat II, Swamp Fox and Wolf. From then on Sue McGowan continued to increase her lead to an eventual win.

The last leg of the course ended in a close finish for second place between Pentleton and Jimmy Barnes who now had edged his Gay-Lee-Ann II into second place by tacking along the shore by the Yacht Club to obtain more wind and a better slant. Then followed a tacking duel, with Pentleton the winner. The final

SATURDAY SENIOR SERIES

The third and fourth races in the July Senior Series were held Saturday afternoon, July 12th, at the Mattapoisett Yacht Club. Corinthian honors went to Billy Mee in Irish Eyes and Art McLean in Demo. Harvey Pentleton's Swamp Fox and Sue McGowan's Hep Cat II were the victors for the Beetle Cats.

The skippers in the 18-boat combined fleet encountered light southerly five-knot winds, which dropped to near zero as the afternoon wore on.

The first Corinthian race was from the race committee boat anchored at mid-harbor to Red Nun 4 to Crescent Beach MYC guide buoy to Gallatin Rock Black Can 5 to finish at the race committee boat. Mee gained the lead at the start of the course and held it to the finish. Carlton Burr in Good Grief was second and McLean in Demo third.

The first Beetle Cat race started at the race committee boat anchored in mid-harbor to Barstow Rock Red Nun 6 to Ned's Point MYC guide buoy to Mattapoisett Neck MYC guide buoy and finished at the race committee.

Swamp Fox took the lead at the start with Jimmy Barnes in Gay-Lee-Ann II close behind. As the 12-boat fleet approached the first marker, Sue McGowan moved out front, followed by Pentleton and Barnes.

Hep Cat II rounded the second marker incorrectly and headed towards another marker not on the course. Pentleton was then in the lead with Barnes second, and David Donald's Duke third. These positions held to the finish.

The course for the second race (the same for both classes) was scheduled as a triangle, starting from the race committee boat anchored in mid-harbor to Sunken Ledge Black Can 5 to Molly's Cove MYC guide buoy, and finishing at the race committee boat. But later, as the wind diminished to almost zero, the course was shortened to a windward-leeward race, thus eliminating the sail to the Molly's Cove MYC guide buoy marker.

The lack of wind was a determining factor in the second race, causing some ships to be becalmed and later to be towed in.

Art McLean in Demo rounded the first marker before the wind suddenly died and managed to make it the rest of the way to the finish first. Dr. Meymaris' Tishomingo came in second, with N. Shackoy's Blue Chips third.

In the second Beetle Cat race, P. McCarthy in Wolf and J. Barnes in Gay-Lee-Ann II made good starts. On the first leg of the course, the lead shifted several times between Sue McGowan, J. Barnes and H. Pentleton, as they changed from port to starboard tacks. As the fleet neared Sunken Ledge Black Can 5, Swamp Fox was in the lead.

Then came that motionless lull in the winds. J. Barnes dropped out; P. McCarthy, seeking wind inshore, fell behind. Twenty minutes later the winds began to stir and Sue McGowan's Hep Cat II gained a two-boat lead over Swamp Fox to finish first. H. Pentleton's Swamp Fox was second and P. McCarthy's Wolf third.

Scout Activities

BOY SCOUTS HAVE WEEK OF CAMPING

Boy Scouts of Mattapoisett Troop 15 returned Saturday from a week of scouting at Camp Cachalot. Those attending included James Sullivan, Junior Assistant Scoutmaster; Ralph Staples, Jarvis Simpson, David Hathaway, Stephen Crowley, David Covill, David Crowley, Anthony Fernandes, Richard Fernandes and David Whitney. One of the highlights of the week occurred Thursday when the troop went on a canoe trip down the Agawam River into Wareham where they camped overnight on an island and returned to Camp Cachalot Friday.

James Sullivan was awarded merit badges for nature and conservation of natural resource and he also received the mile swim award. David Crowley earned the mile swim award and the swimming and canoeing merit badges. Ralph Staples earned the swimming and canoeing merit badges, David Covill received the personal fitness merit badge. The boys received Cachalot neckerchief slides and rainbow trail awards. Camp Cachalot neckerchiefs were presented to the following troop leaders who assisted the boys: Raymond A. Covill, Real Breton, Charles A. Crowley, Jr. and Bradford Hathaway. Prior to the week at camp, James Sullivan and Joseph Alves were inducted into the Order of the Arrow, a brotherhood of honor campers which functions as a Scout service organization.

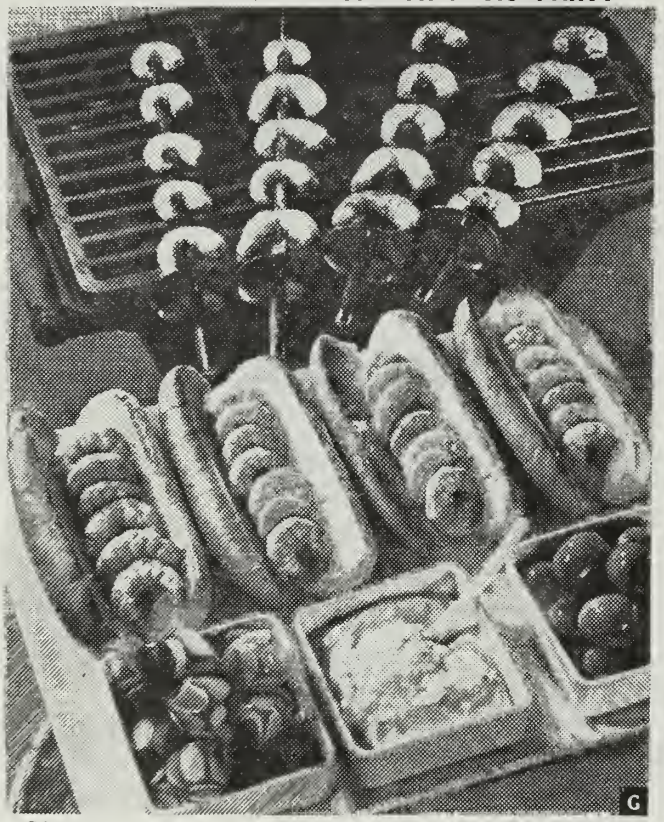
Mattapoisett again welcomes the Gardner family of all ages. May their stay be a most happy one.

Regular services of Sunday worship are as follows: 8 A.M., Holy Communion, 10 A.M., Morning Prayer and Sermon. On the first Sunday of the month, Communion is celebrated at both services.

A cordial welcome is extended to those of all faiths who enjoy worship in this charming small chapel by the sea, dedicated to the service of God in the 1880's, and continuing devoutly every summer since that time.

SHRIMPFURTERS TIP-TOP FOR PATIO PARTY



Often on a summer weekend there's just no place like your own patio for real relaxation.

Backyard chefs and kitchen queens are always on the lookout for foods adaptable to the skewer. For a welcome change of pace, try tangy shrimpfurters made with a minimum of fuss. All you need to do is marinade the shrimp in advance and cook over the coals for approximately 10 minutes. Accompany with tartar sauce, olives, radishes, celery, and carrot stocks. Serve with iced tea and a simple dessert.

SHRIMPFURTERS

8 Tip-Top frankfurter rolls, split
½ cup melted butter
4 pounds medium-size shrimp, shelled and deveined
1 cup lemon juice
1 cup olive oil
4 cloves garlic, crushed or minced

Rinse shrimp and dry. Place in glass or stainless steel container. Cover with marinade made by combining lemon juice, olive oil and garlic. Let refrigerate for several hours or overnight. Remove shrimp from marinade and thread onto metal skewers. Broil about 5 minutes on each side, depending on size of shrimp, basting several times with marinade. Meanwhile brush insides of rolls with butter and toast, cut sides down, or wrap in foil and warm. Remove shrimp from skewers and place in buns and serve immediately. Yield: 8 servings

Teen Volunteers Sought

YOUTH FOR HANDICAPPED AND RETARDED

Young people from Mattapoisett and Marion, age 13 and over, are needed to work with mentally and physically handicapped children on a volunteer basis for the summer months.

The recreational program is designed to provide stimulating activity for these special children while regular school is not in session.

Young people, either boys or girls, are welcome to participate in this worthwhile program and may contact Mrs. Dennis Sylvia at 758-2998 if you wish to volunteer. Parents wishing to enroll their child may do so by calling Mrs. Sylvia.

Children from all special classes in Sippican, Center and Old Rochester Regional High Schools may enroll in this program. Parents wishing to register their child may do so by calling Mrs. Sylvia. The program will begin July 21st.

Events planned include crafts, painting, games and athletics. All activities will be scaled according to ability and children will be given individual attention on a one-to-one basis.

The programs will be held at either St. Gabriel's Church in Marion or the Congregational Church in Mattapoisett. The Sippi-

Summer Concert

One of the enjoyable aspects of summer is the Band Concert. People strolling on the wharf, sitting on the park grass and in their cars gather to hear musicians who take pleasure in creating music. These talented people under the direction of John Pandolfi, have entertained large and most appreciative audiences this summer. The music has been good. The weather has been wonderful. On the first concert night, people sitting on the grass could feel the warmth still in the earth stored from the day's sun. The first concert held a special bonus as the young band of Old Hammondtown and Sippican Schools took over during intermission and played extremely well. Their director is Mr. Jarvis Medeiros.

There is an atmosphere about these concerts that is special. People gathered together to savor the best of small town living, enjoying both the music and the companionship. It's the sort of thing that is saved in memory as the finest of nostalgia.

TWELVE CRAFT UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Scout leaders with the help of men interested in scouting have been working since May on an ambitious project which will be enjoyed by Mattapoisett scouts. Twelve canoes have been planned and are now under construction so that the boys can make river field trips as part of their program. The canoes are of fiberglas, light and strong. The molding was done at the Mattapoisett Boat Yard which made its facilities available. The finishing is being done at Manuel Luiz' shop on Prospect Road. The canoe, shown above with some of the workers, is being framed.

Open Air Art Festival

The belief of contemporary responsible writers in the art world that there will not be a true cultural explosion in this country and cultural centers will mean very little until communities foster their own talented people, giving them room to expand, develop, and experiment has motivated the members of the Portuguese Cultural Foundation to sponsor an Open Air Art Festival, Sunday, August 17th, one to six p.m. at the summer residence of Professor Jose da Costa, Half-rest a Beira-Mar, South Dartmouth.

The event, coordinated by Mrs. Gil Amaral, will give area residents the opportunity to view and purchase the works of local artists which will be shown in a beautiful setting enhanced by garden variety and wildflowers arranged by the president, Mr. John Perry, Jr. The artists' exhibits, arranged by Miss Otilia

For the first time in this area, residents will have the opportunity to participate in a silent auction directed by Att. Leonard Alfonso and Miss Marjorie E. Hubbard. Donations of paintings obtained by Mrs. Brian J. Lawler will be displayed on the terrace in the grove. Att. Roy D. Santos and Mr. Anthony S. Catojo, Jr. will announce the results at six p.m.

The works of the guest artist, Brazilian born Victor R. Correa, will also be on exhibit at this time. Mr. Correa works in oils, watercolor, pastels, India ink, crayons, etc. and has studied in Paris and New York and has won several awards here and abroad. Professor Jose da Costa will be in charge of the program of the day.

Consul Dr. Marcio M. Bueno and Mrs. Bueno, Consul Vasco E. Villela and Mrs. Villela will be especially interested guests at a private viewing of the paintings of Victor R. Old-Fashioned Auction

This Saturday, July 19th, at 10 A.M. the Congregational Church vestry at Rochester Center will be the scene of an old fashioned church auction. James "Smiley" Moran and Ken "Lightfoot" Swift, auctioneers, are driving 200 miles round trip to donate their talents to the First Congregational Church.

The Ways and Means Committee, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Hoyle Demoranville, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Davoll, Mr. and Mrs. Greenwood Hartley, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Watling and the Rev. and Mrs. Edward F. White, report that a great variety of items await the public. Mr. Victor St. Aubin and Louis Oullette have been very busy helping Mr. Demoranville pick up many truck-loads of valuable merchandise.

The refreshment booth will be under the direction of Mrs. Greenwood Hartley, Mrs. Ainsley White, Mrs. George Church and Mrs. Richard Snow.

More information may be had by calling the parsonage at 763-8839.

Proceeds from the auction will aid in paying for the new ceiling to be installed this summer in the church auditorium.

"Who Dun It?" It might be interesting to invite the person responsible for the "false Alarm" tonite to write in to the Presto Press an anonymous letter describing the reason for doing it! As there is always (or almost always a reason for performing an act - conscious or unconscious).

The person responsible should realize that the fire department people are volunteers who work hard all day and need their rest, but are willing to forego their rest in case of the danger of fire in this town they love. It's a wonderful town and I'm sure all the young people appreciate it too.

Whomever was responsible for pulling a false alarm in a lovely, cool, seaside town like this should try living in a city, preferably an inland city in summer. Any person who is

The following letter is a copy sent to a chemical company by a local resident:

Several months ago, I purchased a five pound bag of Ortho-Klor 10, 10% chlordane ant control dust, at a local hardware store. A pretty vest is one thing every-girl must have for back-to-school this fall! And your top choice is a long, long "sweater vest" like this, belted and pocketed: the main ingredient of a wonderful threesome when you add a long-sleeve shirt (note those deep cuffs) and a little plaid skirt with swingy A-line or news-from-Paris pleats.

Jump Into a Jumper, The schoolgirl look that fashion's mad about for every age now. And how a jumper does stretch your wardrobe! Wear it with a turtleneck one day, with a shirt the next—add a belt, a scarf, a muffler—play all the new accessory tricks. Sketched here, the new Sears front-buttoned jumper, in colorful plaid to accent with a "pick-up" solid color in sweater, shirt, knee-socks.

and that the emotional climate here is supercharged at the moment. Nonetheless, I'm frightened of that partially expended bag of your chlordane bearing product.

I remember reading, rather perfunctorily, the caution printed on the label, when I bought the stuff. Now that I realize there's enough cumulative poison to kill not only my whole family, but all the wildlife on Mattapoisett Neck, I'm frightened of the responsibility I bought. I won't use the stuff now, but worse, I don't even know how to dispose of it safely!

What should I do with it? I can't bury it in the woods. I can't take it to the Town Dump. I can't pour it down the drain. All of these will sooner or later release it to the environment, which I cannot now do. How can it be neutralized?

Your frightened customer,

Protecting The Future

COUNCIL OF ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY

The House Merchant Marine and Fisheries committee last week approved a bill to establish a Council of Environmental Quality. This legislation, sponsored by Congressman Hastings Keith, and nineteen others, was approved unanimously by the committee.

As proposed in Keith's bill, the Council would be made up of five members, appointed by the President. Functioning like the Council of Economic Advisors, the Environmental Council would make an annual report to the President on the state of the nation's environment, with recommendations for Executive action.

The Council would assist the President in preparing a yearly "Environmental Quality" report to Congress, by gathering and analyzing information on the environment.

a 'systems approach' to the problems that face our nation in this vital area."

The Environmental Council will provide the means by which we can continue as a nation to build necessary highways, dams, airports and commercial and industrial facilities which will be compatible with the preservation of our environment. The Council can so allocate and coordinate our natural resources, that they can be used today without destroying their value for future generations of Americans.

With a staff of experts in the field, the Council would be authorized to appraise the various activities of the Federal government in light of their effects on the nation's environment. In addition, the Council would "recommend to the President national policies to foster and promote the improvement of our environmental quality," in the language of States today -- the quality of our environment," said Congressman Keith after the committee session.

"I am hopeful that this Council will help to resolve the existing departmental conflicts of jurisdiction," said Keith. "it will provide reasonable standards for protecting our environment, and at the same time enable us to move forward, in coordination with the industrial and commercial sectors of the nation, to improve our environment."

He cited recent controversies over the use of DDT, chemical-biological warfare research, and disposal of obsolete deadly gas by the military as areas where such a Council could have been valuable.

"This Council would give the President and the nation independent, expert advice on how to deal with environmental problems," the Congressman went on, "as well as institute

Marine Sanctuary or Oil?

STUDY ON USES OF WATERS OFF CAPE COD

The Department of the Interior revealed last week that it is conducting a study of "the most beneficial future uses" of the waters off Cape Cod. Their study is in anticipation of future requests for off-shore oil drilling rights.

In a letter to Congressman Hastings Keith, Undersecretary Russell E. Train said that seven agencies within the Interior Department are cooperating in the survey.

"I have asked the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, the Bureaus of Com-

Train's letter came in response to a request from Keith that the Interior Department clarify its position on oil drilling in the off-Cape area now, in advance of any request for oil leasing rights by oil companies. A number of surveys have been made of undersea areas near the Cape, leading to reports that oil is there in commercially valuable quantities.

In his letter to the Interior Department, Keith had been explicit about his opposition to such developments. "The possibility of finding and exploiting oil resources off the Massachusetts coast is one that causes considerable concern in my district."

"As you know, the area now serves as prime recreational and fishing grounds, and the idea of drilling for oil--especially in the wake of the Santa Barbara episode-- is one that arouses great opposition.

"This matter is of most immediate concern to me, to my constituency, and to the nation as a whole."

For the past three years the Congressman has introduced legislation that would create "marine sanctuaries", off-shore areas that would be restricted in their use. Similar bills have been filed this year by Senators Muskie, Kennedy, Brooke and some 20 others but none have been acted upon in this session of Congress.

Interior Secretary Walter Hickel has endorsed the "marine sanctuaries" principle, but has expressed reservations about the cost of adequately surveying the entire U.S. coastline to determine where such sanctuaries should be established.

In his letter, however, Train noted that "a great deal of data on Cape Cod and Georges Bank is available, and we may already have a good beginning on a study of the area."

In releasing the letter, Congressman Keith noted that the Interior Department's action would serve as a "demonstration project" showing the practicality of his "marine sanctuaries" concept.

"I hope that the survey will show that the off-shore areas near the Cape are too valuable to take a chance on allowing oil drilling there," he said. He praised the Department for its initiative in reacting to his request.

Truth-in-Lending

YOUR FAMILY FINANCE
WHAT IS TRUTH-IN-LENDING

The truth-in-lending law, effective July 1, covers virtually all credit for personal, family or farm use up to $25,000 and even more in real estate transactions. It's bound to affect you.

How the new law will change America's whole credit vocabulary was explained recently by Kenneth V. Larkin, senior vice-president of Bank of America and chairman of The American Bankers Association Instalment Credit Committee. His comments should prove valuable to anyone shopping for bargains in credit.

"Everyone should understand that this law doesn't change credit rates," he began. "Its primary purpose is to make sure that the customer is fully informed about all the costs and conditions of any credit contract. Among other things, it requires that all lenders use the same method of stating credit charges -- either the annual percentage rate, or up to January 1, 1971, its dollar equivalent. This makes it much easier to comparison shop for credit.

"Before this law," he continued, "banks often quoted charges in terms of dollars per $100 per year, either add-on or discount. Those latter terms refer to two different ways of writing instalment loan contracts."

Mr. Larkin explained that "add-on" meant that the finance charge was added to the principal to arrive at the amount to be repaid, while "discount" indicated that the charge was deducted from the principal at the time the loan was made.

"Under the new law," he said, "a bank that used to quote $6 per $100 per year add-on on a one-year loan will now talk of an 11% annual rate, or $11 per year per $100 on the unpaid balance. The actual cost, of course, is the same."

When asked why this should be, he pointed out that the old dollar rate applied to the total amount borrowed, though the borrower didn't have the use of the entire amount for the whole year. After six months of a one-year loan, half of it had been repaid, so the average amount outstanding was only about half the original total. Since the annual percentage rate is determined by dividing the finance charge by the average amount outstanding, th figure would be almost double that of the old dollar rate.

"Remember, only the language has changed, he cautioned. "The cost to the customer is th same. It isn't just a simple conversion from dollar rate to annual rate, however. When figuring the new rate, some items not usually covered in the old dollar rate must be include - service charges and fees for credit reports, for example, and credit life insurance when required by the lender. Still, the borrower has always had to pay these items, so there is no actual change in cost to him."

Mr. Larkin went on to discuss how the new law applies to bank credit cards and revolving credit accounts. Finance charges on these accounts have usually been expressed as a monthly rate - a percentage of the unpaid balance each month on the billing date. To arrive at the annual percentage rate required by the new law, this monthly rate is simply multiplied by twelve. Thus, a 1 1/2% monthly rate becomes an 18% annual rate.

"You will note that the rates quoted on this type of account are quite a bit higher than those on simple instalment loans," Mr. Larkin pointed out. "This is somewhat misleading. In the first place, the customer usually gets a grace period of at least 30 days - up to 2 months - during which he can pay his bill without any finance charge at all for the credit he uses. Since most people pay off this type of credit in six months or less, the interest-free grace period may amount to a third or half of the period when credit is extended, reducing the effective rate proportionately.

"Banks are solidly behind this new law, not only because it will aid their customers, but for purely selfish reasons as well. We know that bank rates are among the lowest available anywhere. With the new law making it so much easier to compare rates, banks can't help but benefit."
